Pipestone Plant

Pipestone is a liquids hub and natural gas processing and liquids stabilization plant located approximately 45 kilometres northwest of Grande Prairie. Keyera will own the facilities while Encana will initially operate.

The liquids hub is currently under construction and will include a total of 14,000 barrels per day of condensate processing capacity. The plant will include a total of 200 million cubic feet per day of sour gas processing capacity with acid gas injection capabilities, 24,000 barrels per day of condensate processing capacity and associated water disposal facilities. Pipestone will be designed to include a second phase that could add an additional 200 MMcf/day.

¹ Project timing and cost subject to timely receipt of regulatory approvals and construction schedule variables.
